EXPLANATORY NOTE

This bill seeks to amend Republic Act No. 9344, the "Juvenile Justice and Welfare Act of 2006", more popularly known as the Pangilinan Law, as amended by Republic Act No. 10630, "An Act Establishing a Comprehensive Juvenile Justice and Welfare System, Creating the Juvenile Justice and Welfare Council under the Department of Social Welfare and Development, Appropriating Funds Therefor, and for Other Purposes".

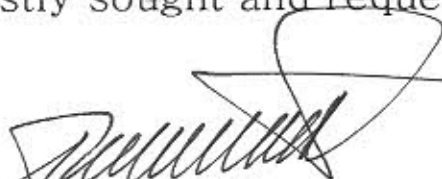

R.A. 9344, more specifically Section 6 thereof, raised the minimum age of criminal responsibility from nine (9) years old to fifteen (15) years old. While the intent of protection of the Filipino youth may be highly laudable, its effects have had the opposite effects - the pampering of youthful offenders who commit crimes knowing they can get away with it. Worse, adult criminals – individually and/or in organized cabal – knowingly and purposely make use of youth below 15 years of age to commit crimes, such as drug trafficking, aware that they cannot be held criminally liable.

The choice of nine (9) years as the minimum age of criminal responsibility under the Revised Penal Code was infused with wisdom. Most children above this age, especially in these times when all forms and manner of knowledge are available through the internet and digital media, are already fully informed and should be taught that they are responsible for what they say and do.

Hence, the need to revert the minimum age of criminal liability back to that set forth in the Revised Penal Code.

In view of the foregoing, approval of this measure is earnestly sought and requested.
